THIRSTY SANTA — Joseph E. Gleisner, better known as Santa Claus this time of year, holds back his honest-to-goodness beard as he gets a drink of water at New Ulm, Minn. Gleisner grows a new beard each year. He starts the beard every autumn when the frost nips the flowers. With such a fine growth of beard, two men bought Gleisner a Santa suit so that New Ulm could have its own Santa.

Northern Florida Freezing

Snows, Cold Weather Sweep Into Southland

By The Associated Press
Dixie shivered with the rest of the Eastern half of the nation today as snow and freezing cold spread across the Southland.

It was freezing in northern Florida. And it wasn't so hot in the southern section as temperatures dropped into the low 50s during the early morning.

Snow piled up to a foot and higher in parts of the Carolinas and Virginia.

Driving conditions in the snow-stricken Southern areas were reported hazardous.

Schools were ordered closed in more than a score of Virginia communities. Five persons, including four children, died in fires in the Norfolk area.

Although no snow was reported in other Southern states, it was cold. Temperatures were in the 20s in parts of Georgia and near freezing in sections of Mississippi and Alabama.

From Montana Eastward
The cold air embraced most areas from Montana eastward to the Atlantic Coast.

The Weather Bureau didn't see much hope for immediate relief from the cold weather.

In the east, freezing temperatures and lower were reported from Virginia into New England. It was below zero in parts of northern New England.

Kiwanians Vote $1,000 for Ceiling at Memorial Building

The Kiwanis Club voted at its weekly luncheon meeting Thursday noon in the Memorial Building to donate $1,000 for construction of an acoustical ceiling over the Memorial Building gymnasium.

A check for that amount will be turned over to the building's directors soon.

Recently, Robert W. Campbell, president of the Memorial Building Board of Directors, urged residents to contribute to a fund to be used for upkeep of the building.

The Community Chest provides funds annually for operation of the building, but not for major repairs and maintenance. Last year a new gymnasium floor was installed at a cost of $3,000.

Mrs. Darrel Fadely, guest speaker, talked on the progress being made in the fight against multiple sclerosis.

Strong Unity Of Allies Eyed By Ike, Dulles

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles confer today on efforts to obtain solid Allied unity in the face of mounting Soviet pressures against West Berlin.

Their afternoon conference was scheduled between Dulles' discharge from the hospital and his takeoff for a series of conferences starting next week in the French capital.

Dulles has been in Walter Reed Hospital since last Friday undergoing treatment for diverticulitis, an intestinal inflammation.

His chief task at Paris so far as the Berlin issue is concerned apparently will be to try to resolve a split between Britain and West Germany.

Differ on Reply

The two powers differ on the kind of reply which should be made to the recent Soviet proposal to convert West Berlin into a free city and end the Western occupation there.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany has taken the position that the Berlin issue should be disposed of before any new proposals on Germany are made to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev. Some diplomats say that Adenauer wants the Western powers simply to reject Khrushchev's proposition without mention of other issues to be negotiated.

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, however, are reported to favor instead Western counterproposals designed to open the way for negotiations with the Russians on German problems.

Adenauer is understood to feel that the British reaction is too soft.

Must Reject Plan

Dulles' own attitude is reported to be that the Western powers must sternly reject the Khrushchev plan for West Berlin, but preferably at the same time put forth some kind of counterproposal based upon solving the Berlin problem through the unification of Germany with free elections.

A 4,000-word Soviet statement Thursday night gave fresh evidence that the Russians are making a play for division among the Western powers by increasing war talk. The statement was issued by the official Soviet news agency Tass.

It accused the Western powers of stalling. Any use by them of force, it said, would be met with force by the Soviet-led Warsaw Alliance.

The State Department commented that the Tass statement repeated the arguments of Khrushchev's proposal with what it called "an added note of menace."

The department added: "The United States, which has made no threats, will not be deterred by threats from defending its rights and discharging its responsibilities to the 24 million free people in West Berlin."

Toledo Has Coldest Temperature in Ohio

By The Associated Press
Toledo and other communities in that area had the coldest weather in Ohio early today. There was some relief from sub-zero temperatures in the rest of the state.

A 5 below zero reading was taken at Toledo. Some other readings were: Akron and Dayton, 9; Cincinnati 15, Cleveland and Columbus 11.

There were some light snow flurries during early morning at Belaire, Canton, Cleveland, Columbus and Dayton. The Weather Bureau reported a low pressure area over the Great Lakes region this morning will be replaced Saturday by a high pressure ridge which is approaching from the Plain States.

Ohio temperatures will be slightly colder Saturday and snow flurries will continue mainly near Lake Erie.

The Ohio Department of Highways reported that primary roads are normal, with very few scattered slippery spots, except north of Cleveland, Chardon and Jefferson, where secondary roads are snow-covered and slippery in spots.

Secondary roads are reported normal.

The Ohio Turnpike is reported normal.

Judge Told to Show Records

Alabama Magistrate Is Probed by Court

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—A federal versus state power clash loomed today on a federal court's demand that an Alabama judge and five voter registrars show their records to the U.S. Civil Rights Commission.

After District Court orders were issued Thursday, rapid-fire developments indicated further possible difficulty for the year-old federal agency probing complaints of discrimination against Negro voters.

Macon County Registrars E. P. Livingston and Grady Rogers, two of the five who silently defied the commission at its first hearing Monday and Tuesday, resigned on grounds they were being intimidated.

Would Obey Orders

"They said they would obey orders to appear at a second hearing here before the six-man commission or a subcommittee Dec. 19.

But they said, "We aren't registrars any more and no records are in our possession." What effect this may have on the investigation had not been determined.

Refusal to obey the orders could bring contempt citations and possible penalties of imprisonment or fines. This would be at the court's discretion.

A promise of "vigorous opposition" to the court orders came

Ex-Policeman Plans Appeal

Stuttler Is Found Guilty of Burglary

LISBON — A Columbiana County Common Pleas Court jury Thursday afternoon found Louis Stuttler, 39, former East Liverpool policeman, guilty of the burglary of the Burbick Hardware Co. in East Liverpool June 9, 1954.

The jury of eight women and four men deliberated an hour and twenty minutes before returning a verdict at 2 p.m. The trial started Monday.

Atty. Samuel Chertoff of East Liverpool, counsel for Stuttler, said today a motion for a new trial will be filed Monday. Judge Raymond Buzzard had deferred sentencing Stuttler pending the expected motion.

Under state law, Stuttler is liable to a prison sentence of one to 20 years.

The state's case was based almost entirely on a fingerprint found on a wall near a skylight in the Burbick Store. The state contended the print was left by a burglar who entered the store through the skylight, taking an electric saw, binoculars, fishing tackle and other items.

A state fingerprint expert, Arnold Fetter of the Ohio Bureau of Criminal Identification and Investigation, testified Tuesday the print was Stuttler's.

Albert Kittridge, also a former East Liverpool patrolman and considered an authority on fingerprinting, testified Wednesday, however, that the print was not Stuttler's.

Stuttler denied being guilty on the burglary when he took the stand Wednesday.

He said he had been in the store numerous times delivering merchandise for a trucking firm with which he held a part time job.

Mrs. Lesh Broomall of Salem was forelady of the jury.

Two other former East Liverpool policemen, Ira Cunningham and Jerry Raimond, were convicted last month in connection with a 1952 burglary of the Burbick store. They are seeking a new trial.

Forfeiting bonds were: Charles A. Lovell, 18, of RD 3, Salem $10, failing to yield the right of way; James L. Miller, 24, of 141 1/2 W. 2nd St., $20, failing to stop at a stop sign; Willie S. Proposed Talks Would Include Berlin Situation

Soviets Warn West Against Using Force In East Germany

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union put in another bid Thursday night for a summit meeting on causes of international tension. It included the Berlin situation but ruled out discussion of German reunification.

The statement from the official news agency Tass also warned that any Western use of force to maintain access to Berlin would be met by Soviet force and would touch off a nuclear war.

Some Western officials have proposed that Berlin be discussed only in connection with the entire German unification problem. Tass renewed the Kremlin stand against negotiating on reunification and also rejected again the Western demand for all-German free elections.

Deadliness to Talk

The Soviet Union repeated, however, its readiness to talk about a World War II peace treaty for Germany. Tass added that the Soviet Union stands for a meeting of the heads of state, on the condition that East and West are equally represented, with the aim of "discussing ripened questions of consequence (toward) easing international tension..."

The Communists contend that German unification should be negotiated by the East and West German governments, meeting as equals.

Preliminary negotiations for a summit conference broke down last June when the Kremlin published secret minutes of meetings on searching talks at a lower level to insure likelihood of agreement before the heads of governments gathered. The Soviet Union wanted to get the government chiefs to do the actual talking.

The West also had insisted on restricting any summit conference to the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union, with

Harvester Co. Plants Still Strike-Bound

CHICAGO (AP)—International Harvester Co. pressed anew today for a United Auto Workers Union agreement to end a four week strike of 37,000 employees at 18 Harvester plants after dropping all but six of its contract demands.

The union said Thursday the Harvester concessions were insufficient to warrant a settlement.

"This latest move by the company withdraws unwarranted demands," said Pat Greathouse, UAW international vice president. "But it does not demonstrate a sufficient withdrawal to warrant a settlement basis, and it still is a refusal to meet the negotiated pattern of the industry."

One of Harvester's six contract demands was rejected at once by the union negotiators. In that one, Harvester asked some form of coverage which would enable it to operate at times on a four-day week instead of laying off workers to maintain a five-day week.

Greathouse said the wage question still is unsettled. The union is demanding—and Harvester opposing — an inequity adjustment fund from which inequity adjustment payments can be made to employees.

The company has offered a boost of 2 1/2 per cent, or six cents an hour, whichever is greater. Wages now average $2.55 an hour.

Restraining Order
Is Issued Against
East Liverpool

EAST LIVERPOOL — Another temporary restraining order was issued Thursday by Common Pleas Court Judge Joel H. Sharp against the City Board of Health, restraining the board from interfering with the sale of dairy products in East Liverpool by McAllister Dairies until the case can be heard in court.

The order was issued after an amended petition and affidavit was filed by McAllister Dairy Farms, Inc., declaring that the firm's dairy products met the standards established by the health board and claiming that the board's refusal to issue a permit to the company is "capricious, arbitrary and unreasonable."

Judge Sharp said the order does not prevent the health department from inspecting the McAllister processing plants and source of supply at any and all times. The inspectors may testify to their findings when the case is heard at a later date.

On Nov. 26 a similar restraining order was issued by Common Pleas Court after a McAllister truck driver was arrested Nov. 25 on a charge of bringing milk into the city illegally for sale.

The arrest was made after the health board announced that McAllister had been denied a permit to sell milk here.

On Dec. 4 Judge Sharp rescinded the temporary order and allowed the city to continue to enforce its milk licensing ordinance until the court hears the action. The first restraining order, he said, was issued through a "misunderstanding of the procedure involved in obtaining a permit to sell within the city."

Plans were completed for the December Pack meeting to be held Dec. 19 at 7 p.m. Den 3 will be in charge of the opening and closing ceremonies. Gifts made by the boys will be presented to their parents. All boys are to bring used toys or clothing to be given to the Salvation Army for distribution to needy families.

E. S. Kerr, who reviewed Mr. EntriKin's 34 years of service for the Salem Public Schools.

Mr. EntriKin received a farewell gift from the faculty, and gifts from the teachers also were presented to Mr. Smith and the office secretaries, Mrs. Matilda Youtz and Mrs. Henrietta Kilbreath.

Mrs. Bess Cline, who served as chairman of the luncheon committee, was assisted by Mrs. Margaret Baker, Mrs. Youtz, Jerry Martin and Mrs. Nellie Horton. Miss Ruth Emery had charge of decorations.

There will be gifts for all the women present and Christmas stockings for all the children. An hour-long Christmas variety program is being planned by Mrs. Esther Odoran, Mrs. Glenn McLaughlin and Mrs. Rudy Drotleff.

Chicago Janitor Claims He Saw
Fire 10 Minutes Before Report

CHICAGO (AP) — A janitor's story stirred a new conflict today over the time of the start of the fire which flashed through Our Lady of the Angels School Dec. 1, killing 89 pupils and three nuns.

James R. Raymond, 44, the janitor at the West Side grade school for 13 years, told a coroner's inquest Thursday he noticed the blaze at either 2:20 or 2:25 p.m. He testified he ran to the nearby rectory and shouted to the housekeeper there to call the fire department.

Authorities and witnesses earlier had said the fire was spotted between 2:30 and 2:40, that the alarm was sounded at 2:42 and firemen arrived about 3 minutes later.

Raymond told the jury inquiring into the fire deaths he believed it was caused by "human hands," meaning he thought it was set by an arsonist or accidentally. But he gave no reason for that belief.

Summarized, this is his story of the holocaust:

He checked some other parish buildings and was south of the school about 2:20 or 2:25 in an alleyway separating the school and church rectory. He saw a "whiff of smoke" from the ground floor window of the school, ran up, and through the frosted glass saw a red glare. Then he ran to the rectory and told the housekeeper to call firemen.

Then, Raymond told the grave, intent jurors, he ran into the boiler room and saw two boys. They were the last of a group who brought wastepaper from the classrooms to empty it into drums. He warned them to get out, ran up to a second floor classroom and broke down a door giving partial access to a fire escape. The pupils and the teacher fled down the escape, he related.

Next, he said, he ran to the front of a second floor corridor and because the smoke was so dense broke out two windows, slashing his left wrist. He stumbled down the stairway and outside and then he remembered struggling with some person who wanted to put him in an ambulance.

County Receipts
From State Total
$6½ Million In Year

Of the $1.4 billion that flowed out of the state treasury during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1958, $6,475,425 went to Columbiana county in the form of direct payments to local governments and individuals, according to the annual report of State Auditor James A. Rhodes.

This was exclusive of state expenditures in this county for highway purposes, conservation, payrolls, rents, leases or similar state spending.

The state distributed $171,675,718 to local governments for general governmental purposes from the following taxes: auto licenses, gasoline tax, sales tax, the intangible tax paid by financial institutions and dealers in securities, liquor permit fees, motor transportation tax and pawnbrokers licenses. Columbiana County's share of these taxes was $1,847,295.

The state distributed $225,404,614 for the following purposes: school foundation program, poor relief, aid to dependent children, aid to the blind, local police and firemen pension funds, tuberculosis hospital, costs in criminal cases, library aid, county and independent fairs and aid to the disabled. Columbiana county's share of these distributions was $3,196,778.

Out of the $191 million in federal grants which the state received in fiscal 1958, $31,684,907 was distributed to local governmental units. Columbiana county received $268,479 of this federal aid money.

State and federal funds amounting to $73,129,490 were paid out by the state direct to individuals in old age pensions, in health care payments under the aid for aged program, and in aid to dependent children. Such payments to individuals in Columbiana county totaled $1,162,870.

Next, he said, he ran to the front of a second floor corridor and because the smoke was so dense broke out two windows, slashing his left wrist. He stumbled down the stairway and outside and then he remembered struggling with some person who wanted to put him in an ambulance.

Then, Raymond told the grave, intent jurors, he ran into the boiler room and saw two boys. They were the last of a group who brought wastepaper from the classrooms to empty it into drums. He warned them to get out, ran up to a second floor classroom and broke down a door giving partial access to a fire escape. The pupils and the teacher fled down the escape, he related.

Life of Young
Ohio Author

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Michael Rollins' dream came true. It was the dream of every writer—to see his work published.

The Associated Press, along with hundreds of newspapers across the land, printed one of Mike's stories Monday.

"To have other people know you wrote it and know other people are reading it—it's a pretty good feeling," he said.

Mike saw only an edition of a local paper which carried two of his stories, along with a resume of his writing career. He didn't see a later edition which told of him having leukemia — cancer of the blood—and that he only had a short time to live.

The 8-year-old died Thursday to Children's Hospital here, con- "We made certain he never found out," said his father, James Rollins of Marion, Ohio. "Mike had a rough enough time as it was."

Nearly 1,000 letters poured in to Children's Hospital here, congratulating Mike on his stories. "It was the most wonderful thing that ever happened to him," his father said.

"Believe me, you can't imagine how much good it did him, and how much it helped my wife and I."

Mike had been writing for about a year when death called upon him as he lay unconscious in a hospital bed.

He was a young writer, but a published writer.

BOY, 17, KILLED

CLEVELAND (AP) — Evan Evans, 17, was crushed and killed when the car under which he had been working slipped off a jack Thursday.

Raymond told the jury inquiring into the fire deaths he believed it was caused by "human hands," meaning he thought it was set by an arsonist or accidentally. But he gave no reason for that belief.

Summarized, this is his story of the holocaust:

He checked some other parish buildings and was south of the school about 2:20 or 2:25 in an alleyway separating the school and church rectory. He saw a "whiff of smoke" from the ground floor window of the school, ran up, and through the frosted glass saw a red glare. Then he ran to the rectory and told the housekeeper to call firemen.

Then, Raymond told the grave, intent jurors, he ran into the boiler room and saw two boys. They were the last of a group who brought wastepaper from the classrooms to empty it into drums. He warned them to get out, ran up to a second floor classroom and broke down a door giving partial access to a fire escape. The pupils and the teacher fled down the escape, he related.

Next, he said, he ran to the front of a second floor corridor and because the smoke was so dense broke out two windows, slashing his left wrist. He stumbled down the stairway and outside and then he remembered struggling with some person who wanted to put him in an ambulance.

Khrushchev Has His Problems, Too

It now is being pointed out at frequent intervals by second-guessers that someone pulled a historic blunder by not getting a written guarantee from Russia about the Berlin "corridor."

The implication is that the Western Allies were guilty of naivete when they took Stalin's word for it that they could get back and forth to their Berlin sectors through Russian-occupied territory surrounding the city.

That point can be granted, though it is unlikely a written guarantee would have kept the Kremlin from wanting to get the Western Allies out of Berlin sooner or later. There needs to be more attention given to the Kremlin's problem in this respect.

WEST BERLIN has been turned into a showcase for Western creativity. It is like a finger jabbed into the eye of the Communist masters of East Berlin and East Germany. Never before in history was a more unfavorable comparison thrust into the awareness of so many people. No one ever flees from West Germany into East Germany, or from free Berlin into Sovietized Berlin. But some three million persons have risked confinement and even death to escape from the Communists into what looks to East Germany like the Promised Land.

The questions that Nikita Khrushchev has raised about the ability of the Western Allies to stay in Berlin against Russia's will are not moves made from diplomatic strength but from diplomatic weakness. No matter what declarations of bluster and bombast he relays to the outside world through the odd fish who seem to be taking over the secretary of state's job by conferring with the head of a foreign state in a crisis, the circumstantial evidence all points in the same direction.

The Soviet Union is trying to terminate an intolerable comparison in Berlin between poverty-sharing under a socialist dictatorship and wealth-producing under a capitalist trusteeship. Naturally Premier Khrushchev would prefer to have the Western Allies abandon Berlin to the Communists; that would be a perfect solution to his problem.

HIS PROBLEM is how to end the galling comparison between poverty and wealth in Berlin. There is some reason to believe his desire to get out from under an embarrassment that has become unbearable is so urgent that if the Western Allies cannot be driven out of Berlin he would jump at a chance to get Berlin out of the Communist zone in Germany.

Premier Khrushchev has his modern-day problems too, and one of his nagging ones is how to keep Russians from wondering how much longer it will be until they can live as comfortably as the residents of West Berlin.

Judges Could Not Write SUB Law

The Supreme Court of Ohio has kept the supplemental unemployment benefits issue on the right track by ruling that SUB is not permissible under existing law.

The Supreme Court conceivably could have found in existing law the same justification found in lower courts to shade the issue in favor of SUB. But as long as any doubt existed, it was a break for Ohioans who want SUB to be made legally payable in their state that the Supreme Court handed the responsibility to the General Assembly for a policy decision.

Judges cannot write an SUB law, nor can they define an SUB policy. For them to have settled the matter out of hand by merely saying SUB could be paid legally under the language of existing law would have been to leave the matter up in the air.

Labor leaders and union members who do not understand why this would have been the effect should study the report of the Ohio Legislative Service Commission on this complex issue. The only way to eliminate the possibility of endless litigation and confusion is to make a complete definition of legislative policy on what kinds of supplemental benefits will be legal in Ohio. It must be assumed that this work will be under way by January, when the new General Assembly convenes.

The question of supplemental benefits had not been raised when the existing Unemployment Compensation Act was passed. No language in the act is clearly applicable to SUB. The effect of including SUB agreements in private contracts was to force either the Ohio BUC administrator or the courts to confirm as a state policy a practice that never had been considered by the state legislature.

The BUC administrator declined to do this. The Ohio Supreme Court will not do it, either. Gov.-elect DiSalle has said what is so obvious it scarcely needed to be said — that the problem now belongs to the General Assembly, where it had to be settled sometime.

In Celestial Shooting Gallery

That was pretty good shooting at Cape Canaveral, when the Army's rocket was aimed at the moon and came within a thousand miles an hour of getting its rocket beyond the earth's gravitational pull.

It was not as good as the Air Force shot at the same target, but both were better than the Navy shot. It is the current consensus that the marksmen must be given more credit for trying than censure for not scoring a bullseye.

These are busy times in the celestial shooting gallery in Florida, and soon there will be another gallery opened up in California, to take care of the overflow.

It is all being done in the name of science, of course, which makes it worthwhile, in exactly the same way that nuclear blasts are worthwhile because they are in the pursuit of scientific knowledge.

However when other rocketeers and blasters pursue science, there always is a question about the purity of their motives.

It is a good deal like the way it was on the Fourth of July, before restraint was imposed on the "scientists" who used to probe the possibilities of the crude fireworks of an earlier day.

The rockets you zoomed into the neighbor's yards and the cannon crackers with which you woke the dead were always in a worthy cause. But when the other fellow did the same thing he was jeopardizing life, limb and property.

It all turned out for the best, though, because it was in pursuit of the definitive weapon and the perfect trajectory. There was a common scientific basis, even though it was not so well understood then as the pursuit of knowledge is understood now.

Knowledge for knowledge's sake has come a long way. The only limit now is the taxpayers' resources.

Once Over

White-haired grandmother type who robbed New York bank is nothing new, says Shrewsbury Holmes, distant cousin of Sherlock, who says there was a famous grandmother, Matilda (Two Gun); Swivelhead, whose hobby was bank robbing and who made mockery of idea all grannys were kindly.

She would slug anybody who called her sweet. She hated crinoline, wouldn't have a rocking chair in the house, blew her stack at pictures of Whistler's Mother and always said Mona Lisa was a female cop. She was never captured until the age of 80 and then it had to be done by the Marines.

GRANNY SWIVELHEAD regarded grandmothers who shoved notes into cashiers' windows as softies, lacking color and a sense of drama. She carried two guns, and didn't specialize in the window routine. Her specialty was casing a bank, wearing a Mother Hubbard outfit, getting there in the early morning and tying up all hands.

She knitted her own rope and after tying up each bank official she added a bow of colored ribbons while she hummed Mother Machree.

This reflected a trace of the grandmother spirit, as did the fact she generally passed out ginger cookies to the bank staff and said, "I'd known this would come off so easy, I would have baked a cake."

She was a cop hater and liked to steal squad cars. She wouldn't steal one unless the police were in them at the time.

IF ANYBODY put up a fight on one of granny's bank jobs she would say Shame on you. I'm old enough to be your grandmother. She would have scorned the tactic of the old woman who told the New York bank clerk she had a glass full of acid ready to throw.

If for some reason her guns weren't in shape she would make her own dynamite stick, walk up to a bank window and start drumming on the ledge with it.

She could be a terror but was versatile and would sometimes say Hand over the dough, but don't be scared, I'm just an old lady who wouldn't hurt an armored truck."

Whatever made a grandmother turn out that way? We asked Shrewsbury Holmes. She was disappointed in love. None of the James boys would marry her," he said.

We have been in two world wars and what did we get out of them? Answer: The hula hoop and the zipper.

U. S. Army is experimenting with a war gas which puts armies to sleep. In this age of frightfully lethal weapons this could be a break for civilization. Enemy just gently put into slumberland. In case they use it also victory goes to side which wakes up first and rushes in men by jet plane to disarm losers.

And Hang the Expense

Bombings Upset Only a Few

By Westbrook Pegler

Bombing is a native American practice in certain fields of controversy, but of recent years it has been employed mostly by union racketeers.

There were impressive bomb attacks in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Worcester, Mass., Port Jervis, N.Y., and New Orleans in the know-nothing era before the Civil War. Irish Catholics were huddling in slums and voting together and thus antagonizing native Americans. They had a political veto balance of power in some of these places.

HISTORIANS AGREE that these Irish were ignorant and impetuous and that some were indifferent to laws against violence. In Ireland they had been denied public education and had been driven to violence by a long experience of persecution and hounding extending back into their ancestry.

In later years the Mormons suffered atrocities at the hands of those whom they called "gentiles," but the Irish of the know-nothing phase could compare wounds with anyone, including even the Cherokees, whom we deported to Oklahoma in a classical horror. In Salem, Mass., old records show that anyone who even "harbored" a Quaker took a risk of hanging or drowning. The Quaker, himself, seems to have been satanic or, at best, sub-human in that society.

The know-nothings, called "bigots," burned many Catholic churches and convents and, in Philadelphia, sacked and burned colonies of squalid dwellings. Some of the immigrants were killed.

IN A SPECTACULAR COUP by the Democratic party, made possible by the accommodating conduct of Herbert Lehman, Charles A. Poletti, serving 29 days as governor, issued clandestine paroles to two Communist bombers of Sidney Hillman's following in New York. These yeggs had planted incendiary bombs at night in premises occupied as dwelling quarters. The purpose was to harass a non-union dry-cleaning company. Neither the crime nor Poletti's leniency aroused much outcry in New York.

By Lehman's retirement, Poletti, the lieutenant governor, got 29 days in the governor's chair. Lehman had insisted on Poletti as his running-mate in place of Bill Bray, the lieutenant governor in his first term. Otherwise Lehman would not run again. There was a hell of a row over that in the state convention. James A. Farley put a gentle face on things, explaining that the governor had a right to a congenial side-kick. This was Jim's euphemism for the sordid, smoke-filled room.

Poletti's directed jail-break was done without any consultation of the authorities who normally are consulted. He now has two state jobs.

"When I was a boy, the horses walked just like the rest of us!"

A Divided GOP

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Republicans Trying to Maintain Unity

What the Republican administration needs more than anything else nowadays is some serious deliberation on how to maintain unity within its own ranks — starting with the Cabinet itself. For, unless the top men of the administration have a clear idea of what alienates large segments of Republican voters, the 1960 election might as well be written off as a hopeless proposition for the Republican party.

Three instances of lack of teamwork and of understanding of public sentiment can be cited. They involve Attorney General William P. Rogers, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Arthur Flemming, and Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell — all able and honorable men.

The attorney general made a speech the other day which aroused the ire of many Northern Republicans.

He may not have intended it as a threat of governmental blackmail but it hardly behooves the head of the Department of Justice — which is charged only with law enforcement — to be issuing veiled warnings that the national government might withhold certain "favors," such as the location or expansion of federal facilities, from areas where there are "community tensions resulting from racial prejudices."

The department is supposed to win its cases in court, not on the stump.

To exploit fears of loss of industrial development by certain states on account of the school "integration" controversy is to add fuel to the flames.

Theoretically, it is the Southern vote — forfeited by the Republicans, anyhow — which is affected but actually there is a substantial number of Republicans outside the South who are deeply concerned about the administration's use of military force in the South.

A POLL TAKEN by a reputable and unbiased organization during the recent political campaign in California showed that "integration" was the top issue with the voters in that state.

This means there was considerable opposition to the administration's handling of the school problem, especially the use of troops in Little Rock.

This correspondent's mail indicates that in the North and West there is about a 50-50 division on the "integration" question and that many Republicans stay away from the polls to express their protest on this issue.

Certainly, so far as the Negro wards in the big cities are concerned, the administration is not betting much mileage out of the issue. Nearly all went Democratic, as usual, in the elections last month.

Christmas Flies

By TRUMAN TWILL

Some of my closest friends are houseflies. I ate breakfast with one this morning.

The temperature outside was 10 below. Most houseflies long since had succumbed to the cold. Some were in sight, between the storm windows and the house windows, with their toes turned up.

But my breakfast companion was as chipper as a teen-ager with Elvis Presley in town. She tripped the light fantastic through the oleo and got into one jam after another. She showed affection by nuzzling my ear — and every so often she skated back and forth over my hairless head to the strains of the "Blue Danube." I didn't mind.

Any other time of the year her antics would have sparked a sputtering oath and a leap for the cupboard where the Department of Household Defense stores its supply of nerve gas.

Or there would have been a direct assault on the hussy with a folded newspaper, a wet dish towel, or a fly swatter. But in the midst of ice, snow and bone-cracking cold the buzzing of a fat and contented housefly over bacon, eggs and steaming coffee is pretty nice.

The secret must be the oven. This particular fly and a few friends with a strong survival instinct must have learned how to shuck up in the oven some way to evade the dark fate that blots out flies when the temperature drops.

Instead of turning up their toes and taking a chance on snapping out of it under the warming rays of spring sunshine months hence, these bizz-buzzers must keep going by utilizing the heat from the oven, until the beginning of the Secretary Flemming may not have intended it that way but his hint, in a public statement last week on federal aid for schools, that such aid might be withheld in a way to influence the outcome of the "integration" controversy did not make a good impression on those Republicans in the North and West who do not believe the taxpayers' money should be manipulated arbitrarily by any administration.

They believe the sole criterion should be the purposes set forth in the legislation passed by Congress, which specifies the nature of any federal subsidies or grants to be made to school, public and private.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT said that the U.S. Office of Education "will consider each application for such loans on its merits," and then went on to say flatly, even without a hearing, that the private schools at Little Rock "would not be likely to meet the conditions indicated above which are required for a sound loan."

Last but not least is the spectacle of a secretary of labor delaying the principle laid down by the President and vice president when they told the voters of California that "right to work" laws constitute a "local" issue and that the Eisenhower administration would take no part either way.

Whenever the top men in a party set a strategy, it might be assumed that all members of the Cabinet would follow it. But, in speeches in Minnesota during the recent campaign, Mr. Mitchell publicly denounced as "phony" the "right to work" laws of the states.

These are the laws that prohibit compulsory unionization and protect the civil rights of the worker. Postmaster General Arthur Sumnerfield last week made an excellent speech in New York City before the National Association of Manufacturers which pleased the conservatives. He warned against a labor-bossed Congress in January. But the question is: Did he speak for the administration?

As a postscript, it might be noted that Mrs. Ruth Murray resigned as vice chairman of the Republican party in Wisconsin this week because, she says, she would rather not work in the next two years for a party which might be turned over to "modern" Republicans.

She charges that the Republican party in the state and nationally had abandoned conservative Republican principles.

The Republican party needs some kind of unit at the top. I can hardly win any "left wing" votes, as these are on the Democratic party side nowadays anyway.

So, it might be asked, what is the sense of alienating the anti-radical and conservative votes?

The answer heard often is that "they have nowhere else to go." Sometimes they don't go anywhere — they just stay at home, and the Republican party in 1960 will need every Republican voter it can persuade to go to the polls.

The New York Herald-Tribune

Some of my closest friends are houseflies. I ate breakfast with one this morning.

The temperature outside was 10 below. Most houseflies long since had succumbed to the cold. Some were in sight, between the storm windows and the house windows, with their toes turned up.

But my breakfast companion was as chipper as a teen-ager with Elvis Presley in town. She tripped the light fantastic through the oleo and got into one jam after another. She showed affection by nuzzling my ear — and every so often she skated back and forth over my hairless head to the strains of the "Blue Danube." I didn't mind.

Any other time of the year her antics would have sparked a sputtering oath and a leap for the cupboard where the Department of Household Defense stores its supply of nerve gas.

Or there would have been a direct assault on the hussy with a folded newspaper, a wet dish towel, or a fly swatter. But in the midst of ice, snow and bone-cracking cold the buzzing of a fat and contented housefly over bacon, eggs and steaming coffee is pretty nice.

The secret must be the oven. This particular fly and a few friends with a strong survival instinct must have learned how to shuck up in the oven some way to evade the dark fate that blots out flies when the temperature drops.

Instead of turning up their toes and taking a chance on snapping out of it under the warming rays of spring sunshine months hence, these bizz-buzzers must keep going by utilizing the heat from the oven, until the beginning of the furnace - heating season finally gives them temperature security.

They could be knocked off with no trouble; there are only a few of them. But that would be murder. It would be as cold-blooded as butchering escapees crossing a frontier. Those flies have struggled so hard and they want so little.

All they ask is a chance to sit on the oleo, mess around in the jam, do modern art work on the light fixtures and go skating on the Big Glacier shaped like a skull.

Except for a little buzzin-cousin to while away the time in a warm human ear and a few light touches on the lamp shades, they are content to watch the world go by, neither spinning nor reaping. When the Christmas tree goes up, with all those warm lights and nooks and crannies, they will have a lovely time in there. It will be a nice touch.

This isn't the kind of thing a man talks about, but I once traveled a thousand miles with a fly. She was in the car the day the trip began, and she was still in it when the trip ended, a thousand miles later. She?

What other sex would have wanted to bite my ears for a thousand miles? What other sex would want to behave in an unseemly fashion at breakfast. All houseflies are of the female gender.

Those flies between the storm windows and the house windows — the ones with their toes turned up — those are the boy flies.

Santa and the ELF BOY

by LUCRECE HUDGINS BEALE

SYNOPSIS: Charlotte's mother has been placed in a never-ending sleep by the Hangdog Hag. Charlotte tells Esteban her father plans to kill the witch with a powerful gas, even though it will mean killing all fairies. Esteban and Charlotte plan to hide the bottle of gas, but the professor discovers them.

POOR BLUE BIRD

The professor led Charlotte and Esteban into the room next to that of his sleeping wife. They could see it was a large and well furnished room. But the windows were barred.

"I will bring your meals and see that you are comfortable," said the professor kindly. "But you cannot get out until Christmas Day when I have destroyed the Hangdog Hag."

"But, father!" begged Charlotte. "What good will it do? Destroying the Hag will not bring mother back again!"

"Perhaps not," said the professor. "But it will keep the Hag from casting a spell over anyone else."

"B-but, sir," protested Esteban. "Must you destroy all Fairyland, too?"

THE PROFESSOR nodded unhappily. "Yes, if that is the only way I can reach the Hag."

Then he went out and bolted the door.

Through the long night the children huddled together until near morning they fell into a restless sleep.

When they woke, the sun was streaming into the room. Esteban ran to the windows and pushed at the bars but he could not budge them.

"It's useless," cried Charlotte. Esteban turned from the window. His eyes sparkled with new hope. "Santa Claus could help us!"

"How would he ever know?" moaned Charlotte.

"My bird!" cried Esteban joyfully. "She'll go to Santa!" He took the little blue bird from his shirt. "Santa himself gave her to me and told me to send her if I ever needed help." He put his lips

"Fly to Santa Land, little blue bird. Fly for help!"

close to the bird and whispered excitedly. "Fly to Santa Land, little blue bird. Quickly! Fly for help!"

He reached his hands through the bars of the window and released the bird. She spread her wings and gently glided down towards the great stone wall surrounding the castle.

Esteban watched eagerly through the bars. "Now everything will be all right!" he cried.

But even as he spoke an awful thing happened. A great hawk, perched atop the castle, saw the little blue bird and, shrieking fiercely, swept down after her.

The blue bird saw the hawk coming and changed her course. The hawk followed. The blue bird flew faster and faster. So did the hawk. "Faster, faster!" screamed Esteban.

BUT IT WAS NO USE. As the children watched the hawk overtook the blue bird, fastened its huge talons around her and brought her back to its nest on top the castle. Charlotte burst into tears. Esteban put his arm around her. "Don't worry. I'll think of something," he comforted her.

For two days he thought. On the third day he had his plan. He put Charlotte in her bed and piled all the covers on her and told her what she must do. At noon the professor brought in their dinner.

"Oh, sir," said Esteban. "Charlotte has a terrible chill. See she can't stop shaking!"

The professor turned to his daughter. Under the covers she was shaking and quivering with such violence that even the floor beneath the bed creaked and rattled.

"Good heavens!" cried the professor. "I'll get hot water bottles!"

White faced, he rushed way so quickly that he failed to bolt the door behind him. "It worked!" cried Esteban to Charlotte. And he ran from the room.

Assistants Named At Mt. Union College

ALLIANCE — Mount Union College today announced the appointment of assistants in the history and German departments for the second semester of the current school year.

Robert R. Catura has been named to teach the German classes replacing Dr. Arthur F. Engelbert, who leaves at mid-year to assume his duties as dean of the college at Washburn University of Topeka, Kan.

Dr. Robert E. Bader, head of the history department, will be taking a sabbatical leave and his classes will be taught by James A. Tague.

Following the semester, both replacements will return to complete their work towards a doctorate - Catura to the University of Michigan where he holds a fellowship, and Tague to Western Reserve University.

Catura received both his B.A. and M.A. from the University of Minnesota. He also studied at the University of Tubingen in Germany as a Fulbright scholar in 1954-55. Tague received his B.A. from Amherst and his master's degree from Western Reserve.

Bader will spend his sabbatical doing research on the Civil War for possible use as material for a textbook. No successor for Engelbert as head of modern languages has been named.

Comedy's Dilemma

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — "I don't trust anyone who can't laugh at himself," said Myrna Loy.

Filmidon's "perfect wife" was talking about the scarcity of light comedy roles which had brought her screen career to a peak.

"The real problem is why isn't the comedy being written," she said. "The trend has been toward realism on the part of the writers — and they furnish the material."

"There is such a tendency to conform among people that to laugh at anything or anybody is almost verboten. You can't write comedy without satirizing or being critical of something."

"We have lost the ability to laugh at ourselves. It's a very unhealthy thing."

After a two-year absence from Hollywood, Miss Loy recently completed her latest film in which she is costarred with Montgomery Clift and Robert Ryan. She plays the part of a wife with a past.

She is being hailed as "the new Myrna Loy," which rather tickles her.

"Being typed is always a danger," she said, smiling, "and I've been typed so often I feel like a cat with nine lives. But I'm glad to do roles that have more depth."

Born on a Montana ranch, red-haired, freckle-faced Myrna Loy was earning $30 a week teaching ballroom dancing while still in her teens. Then for seven or eight years Hollywood cast her as a slinky Oriental femme fatale in film after film.

When stars like Tab Hunter were still in their diapers, Myrna was earning $3,000 a week up as perhaps the screen's all-time favorite wife, the woman every man wanted to marry and bring home to mother. Off-screen, her four matrimonial ventures fared less happily.

The springboard for this phase of her career was the immensely successful "Thin Man" series in which she was teamed as the understanding wife of William Powell. They are popular all over again now as television reruns.

She has been one of the film colony's busiest workers in furthering the cultural activities of the United Nations.

"The years I haven't been so active in films weren't wasted," she said thoughtfully. "They have brought me much experience in life and living."

"The world consists of more than government moves. The artist used to be looked upon as suspect and unreliable. That was ridiculous."

Miss Loy says she has "no permanent philosophy" but added: "I do feel I am an optimist, although there is certainly much in the world to discourage one. You can't help but be hopeful. Life is more of a challenge now than ever—there is so much going on around us."

"Life becomes a dead end for people only because they don't know how to stay active."

HOW TO MAKE A NOSE CONE — Missile re-entry from space into the dense atmosphere of the earth calls for a nose cone that can resist terrific heat. A coating of tungsten, which has a melting point of over 6,000 degrees F., is shown being applied to a cone by a flame-coating process made possible by a high-heat arc torch. The tungsten particles, still in fluid or plastic state, strike the cone at near-sonic speed, are cooled at once by carbon dioxide, and form a hard, dense surface that bonds perfectly.

Fairfield-Waterford Board To Buy Buses; Teachers Boosted

The Fairfield-Waterford Board of Education, granted permission by the state to purchase two new school buses, last night awarded the contract to the Midway Motors of Middletown at a cost of $6,520 for each bus, with the state subsidizing 76 per cent of the cost. A 1948 model will be traded in on the buses, and a 1950 model will be kept for emergency use. The fleet of 12 buses each average 30 miles a day.

Teachers will receive a cost-of-living adjustment amounting to $10 for certified teachers and $35 for other employees, which is the equivalent to a two and a half per cent salary increase, the board decided.

Board members approved the purchase of a duplicator for the high school.

The records of the board have been audited by Dom J. Pulito of Columbus, who complimented clerk Ralph Elliott for his work.

It was announced that teachers and employees of the Fairfield and Waterford Schools will have a Christmas dinner Dec. 17 at 6:30 p.m. at the New Waterford Fish and Game Club.

Mrs. William Baughman was hired as secretary for the Waterford School to replace Mrs. Vivian Fitzsimmons who is resigning in January.

Rate Increase Okayed For Ohio Blue Cross

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An over all rate increase of 30 per cent was approved today for Blue Cross of Northeastern Ohio, which serves the Cleveland area.

State Supt. of Insurance Arthur I. Vorys also approved use of an optional 120-day semi-private contract. He disapproved two 730-day semiprivate contracts on grounds they failed to afford a legitimate hospital service benefit.

Vorys explained that sections of the 730-day contracts would pay for a quantity of take-home drugs to last not more than two weeks. He said he would approve amendments to those sections limiting the quantity of drugs to last not more than three days.

Vorys reported that the cost of Blue Cross for the average wage earner in northeastern Ohio, including the increase, is about 1.7 per cent of his monthly earnings.

The superintendent expressed concern over the ever-increasing cost of hospital care. But he said that attempts to control hospital costs by denying Blue Cross rate increases would imperil the contracts of more than a million Blue Cross subscribers.

Vorys said his department for several months has been studying cost problems. The Ohio Hospital Assn. has agreed to assist that study.

Hospitals are not subject to regulation by the State Insurance Department.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Victor Riesel

Apparently what is good for the President of the United States is not good enough for a tough little union of 3,500 so-called Flight Engineers. They have just about thumbed their noses at virtually all appeals to reason — and thereby hangs an untold tale of hard hit communities, thousands of men and women made jobless needlessly and terrific losses to leading commercial airlines.

This is a vital story of personal interest not only to those who fly to get places but to all who live in cities beneath the turbulent air hanging over nearby traffic-jammed airports.

This report can well begin in President Eisenhower's White House office on the morning of July 2.

The President was talking with the soft voiced, most impartial of mediators, David Cole. With Cole were members of a board which for six months had been studying the Flight Engineers Assn. demand that it retain the third man's seat in jet aircraft cockpits.

MR. COLE HAD just submitted his report to the President saying that the flight engineer on a jet plane should be turned into a pilot. There is no longer any need for the flying "engineer."

President Eisenhower agreed. He said that his own airship, the Columbine, had three pilots — but no flight engineer. The President, who knows his Strategic Air Command as well as he knows the inside of his golf bags, pointed out that the huge eight-jet-motored B-52s have no engineers. Just trained pilots.

Dave Cole's committee said that the flight engineer's job was needed 10 years ago when the engineer started the aircraft on the ground but the new jets have no ignitions.

On the old planes the engineer was needed to worry about fires in the baggage compartments. But now these sections are so airtight that nothing could combust in them.

There is no generator to go out of order aloft. There is no engine analyzer, which the engineer used to handle. There is no aerial repair work on a jet.

The committee estimated that the "third man" actually spent only five minutes now out of every hour at his dials. There is no need for his knobs on the jets. The fire-fighting equipment, for example, is handled automatically by the pilot with push buttons.

THE REAL HAZARDS are those the pilots must worry about. There is the slight matter of avoiding collisions at a speed of 10 miles a minute with another plane coming at you at another 10 miles a minute.

There is the problem of landing — for once the jet starts its run in, it cannot take off as can an old-fashioned plane. It must complete its landing effort. Thus, even the eyes of three pilots may be all too few in an emergency.

The report said the engineer should take training at company expense. His job, his pay, his seniority, all are guaranteed. Yet the Flight Engineers' leaders have struck Eastern Airlines for example defiantly refusing to be trained as pilots.

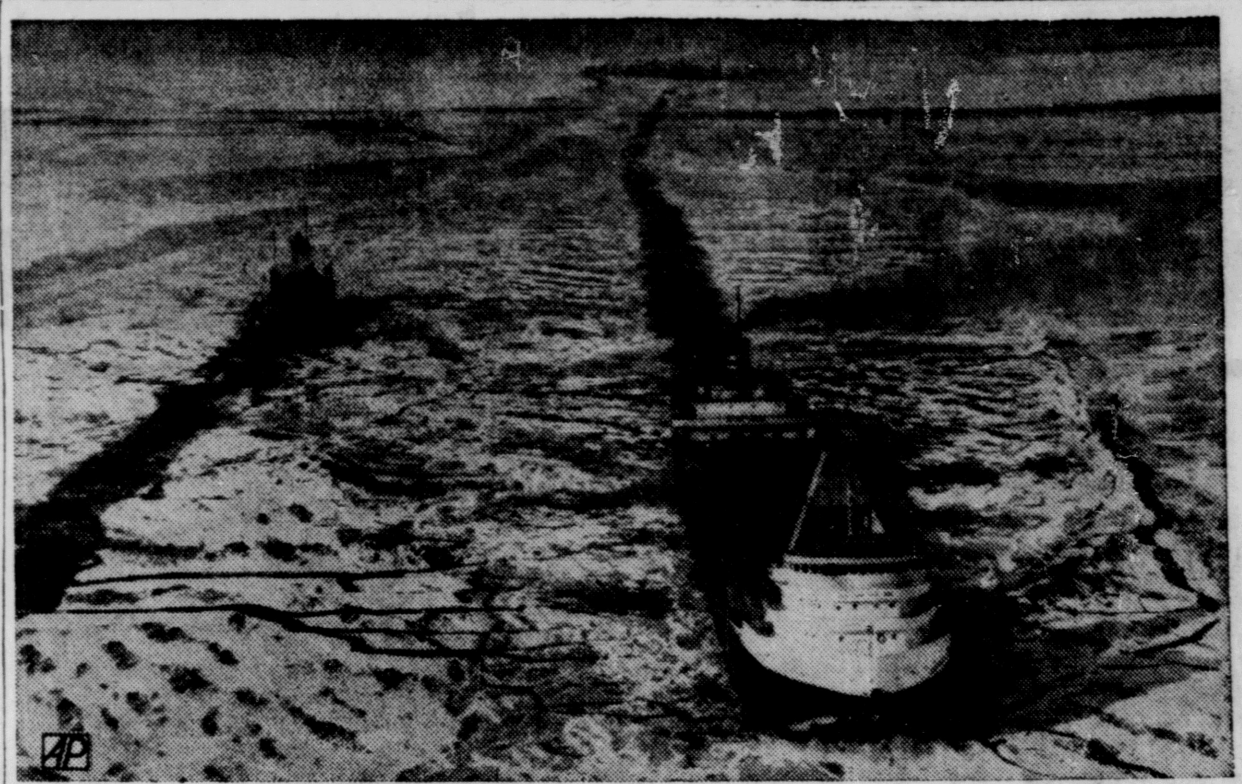

The Flight Engineers to preserve their little union at one time spent $40,000 for public relations — including an artful "movie" romancing their job.

They have not only defied the White House and President Eisenhower who approved the report personally and asked Jim Hagerty to go out and tell the newsmen that he did approve it (which was unprecedented).

BUT THE TINY UNION has defied even its parent outfit the AFL-CIO.

Three times three special AFL-CIO committees have also ruled against the Flight Engineers and urged them to merge with the Airline Pilots Assn.

Among those who ruled against the Flight Engineers were AFL-CIO chief George Meany nation

ICE GRIPS LAKE SHIPPING — Heavy winds jammed ice into the western end of Lake Erie and created hazards for vessels still operating in the Great Lakes this season. The ore carrier Detroit Edison, foreground, works its way through ice pack, passing an unidentified smaller vessel. In far background, two other vessels are battling the ice. Coast Guard at Cleveland, dispatched a cutter to assist the boats.

Secretary - Treasurer Bill Schnitzler and Vice President George Harrison now also a United Nations delegate.

They said on one occasion "the committee . . . can find no trade union reason why the merger of these two organizations (the Pilots and the Engineers) — should not become a reality."

Yet the Flight Engineers International Assn. has struck hard at air travel. The carriers are hurt. Their employees are laid off. The public is in the middle. And there is danger of further costly stoppages. What's at stake? A tiny union whose members, jobs, income and prestige won't suffer.

Is this the age of reason? Is there a labor movement? Or is it merely a marriage of convenience to be abandoned when it demands respect?

DEAR SANTA

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — The post office got this letter to Santa: "Will you give me a new bike, and if you can't find a new bike I will take an old one. If you elves are too busy this year, will you please make me the first one on your list next year?"

Fresno Man Inherits One Million Dollars

FRESNO, Calif. (AP)—Charles C. Binkley, 73, woke up Thursday with a cold, a headache and a million dollars.

How does it feel?

"Not much different, son," replied the twinkling-eyed grey-haired little man. "I haven't seen the money yet."

A Superior Court jury deliberated 3½ hours Wednesday and then awarded Binkley half of a fortune left by a half-sister he never met—or had ever heard of before about three years ago.

Mrs. Cora Nidever died in 1955 at the age of 85. She left an estate of $3,126,488 but no will was ever found.

Binkley, a retired glass blower from Montpelier, Ind., first heard of Mrs. Nidever when he was shown a clipping in an Indiana newspaper.

He began what he calls a "little investigation" that included a check of Civil War pension files.

Then he announced his father, a Union Army veteran named Joseph Binkley, had been the father of Mrs. Nidever. He said his father married Anna Miller Lewis in Indiana in 1880 after leaving Binkley in Ohio in 1878.

Eight nieces and nephews of Mrs. Nidever contested Binkley's claim but the jury was unanimous in determining his right to half the fortune.

Noncommittal before the judgment was announced, Binkley was still silent about his fiscal plans today.

"I've lived in the same house in Montpelier for years," he said, "and there's no reason to move now."

"I don't need any clothes. I really don't have any plans. I don't expect to change my mode of living."

He has a daughter, Mrs. Glenoma Saunders, and five grandchildren in Weiser, Idaho.

His biggest interest is his horse, a 7-year-old pacer named Grand Ripple Mite. He races the horse at Indiana county fairs.

NON-DANGEROUS CURVE — A quarter-mile of continuous railroad rail rides on 34 flat cars, so flexible that it follows curves as the train comes off a siding. The rails were welded by the new NCG continuous rail-welding system. Standard 39-foot length rails are fed into one end of a traveling welding car and emerge at the other end as continuous ribbons of steel on the flat-car train. Sponsors of the new system say welded rails will save millions of dollars in track installation and maintenance costs and in reduction of damage to rolling stock and freight caused by the "rock-and-roll" as car wheels click over the gaps between old-fashioned bolted rail joints.

Newspaperless New York City Hopes for End of 3-Day Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—A newspaperless New York today awaited the outcome of a negotiation session aimed at ending a deliverymen's strike at the city's nine major dailies.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner offered his help.

Some of the news was getting through as radio and television stations expanded coverage. There were other sources.

The New York Central Railroad was distributing handbill-like digests to commuters with news supplied by The Associated Press as a public service.

WRCA, key station of the NBC network, published tabloid-sized "extras" for distribution on streets and in railway stations.

The Long Island Daily Press, one of the nine papers at which presses were still, set up a projection slide news service in Pennsylvania Station for Long Island Rail Road commuters.

The nine papers that have temporarily discontinued publication are the Press, the Times, the Herald Tribune, the Daily News, the Mirror, the World-Telegram and Sun, the Journal-American, the Post and the Long Island Star-Journal. They employ more than 22,000 persons with a payroll in excess of two million dollars a week.

Several of the papers announced they were furloughing most of their employees without pay for the duration of the strike.

The Deliverers' prestrike demands included a $10-a-week wage package, improved welfare benefits and 40-pound bundles to replace 53-pound bundles.

Airline Stewardess Unit Asks Permission to Wear Ski Pants

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — The problem, the three stewardesses explained, is that area between a shapely knee and a well-turned ankle.

"Baby, it's cold down there," they said.

Noni Myers, Anchorage, Alaska; Marilyn Bates, Seattle; and Rosemarie Fliseck, Kent, Wash., were surrounded by an admiring cluster of newsmen Thursday as they explained their problem.

Miss Bates, chairman of Council 77 of the Airline Stewards and Stewardesses Assn., said her union was in contract negotiations with Pacific Northern Airlines, which flies Alaskan routes.

A lot of things are involved in the talks, she said, but two things the company wants have the girls in a particular frost.

First, said Miss Myers, the company wants to be able to retire its stewardesses at the age of 2.

But worst of all, piped up Miss Fliseck, the airline won't let its stewardesses wear ski pants on Alaska flights.

"There we are, exposed," Noni said. "They want us to have just this thin veil of nylon between us and the elements at 40 to 60 below zero."

And Marilyn chimed in: "Every other airline that flies out of Anchorage requires ski pants, for comfort and as a safety precaution. If we crashed in nylons, our legs would freeze stiff."

"The only reason they'll give us is that ski pants are not in keeping with the decorum of the company uniform," Rosemarie said.

"I asked the airline man what we should do to keep from freezing," Noni said. "He suggested we wear adequate underwear. I said, 'What do you suppose we should do to keep warm between here and there?'"

There was no immediate comment from the airline.

Rosemarie said she was 26. Marilyn is 32. Toni said only that she is "quite a ways from 32 yet."

SOUTH ELLSWORTH

Coon Dog Is Freed By Dynamite Blast

FRANKLIN, N.C. (AP) — Old Touse is a blue tick-bulldog hound, one of the best coon dogs in mountainous Macon County. Luke Chastain of Otto is his master.

Two weeks ago, Old Touse and a smaller dog, baying joyfully, ran a coon through a crevice in a granite cliff just over the Georgia border.

Then they couldn't get out. It looked hopeless. Luke took his hammer and chisel, though, and began pecking away at the stone.

Five days later the smaller dog, thinned down from loss of weight, escaped. But as he did some rocks slipped and penned Old Touse even more securely.

The dog could only poke his nose through the hole for food and water.

Luke kept chipping away, and fellow hunters spelled him. The 14th day came and Old Touse still was alive, but time was growing short and there was only three inches of room to swing the hammer.

Luke decided. Red Tallep, 15, of Satolah, Ga., wriggled into the crevice and set a dynamite charge then squirmed out. There was an explosion and a cloud of rock dust, closely followed by Old Touse.

Coons, beware. Old Touse gonna ride herd on you again.

Ohioan Picked to Lead Naval Academy Brigade

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Peter S. Van Nort, a Navy football player from Chagrin Falls, Ohio, will command the 3,600-man brigade of midshipmen for the winter term at the Naval Academy.

Van Nort, who won his football letter as an end this season, headed a list of 248 midshipman officers whose appointments were announced Thursday by Rear Adm. Charles L. Melson, academy superintendent.

He will command the brigade in all its military functions until March 21, when a new set of officers will be selected for the spring period.

The deputy brigade commander is another Ohioan. He is Richard L. Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley E. Martin of Granville, Ohio.

Kentucky Tops SMU 72-60; Xavier Beats Iona 69-52

1958 Champion Clubs Unbeaten

Hank Stein, Viviano Lead Musketeers

By The Associated Press
Kentucky and Xavier of Cincinnati, the NCAA and NIT basketball tournament winners last March, have taken right up where they left off last season. Both are unbeaten.

Kentucky, ranked second in this week's Associated Press poll, and Xavier, No. 16, looked impressive Thursday night. The Wildcats clawed Southern Methodist 72-60 for their fourth straight while the Musketeers coasted to a 69-52 triumph over Iona for their third in a row.

Two sophomores, Billy Ray Lickert and Dick Parsons, paced Kentucky over 18th-ranked SMU at Lexington. Lickert clicked for 23 points and Parsons chipped in with 19 as Coach Adolph Rupp's lads pulled away in the second half. Max Williams was high for the Mustangs with 21.

Xavier led all the way against Iona. Hustling Hank Stein, the NIT Most Valuable Player last season, and veteran Joe Viviano topped Xavier with 17 and 16 points.

Oklahoma State, ranked 20th bowed to Baylor 43-37, being limited to just two field goals in the second half.

Oklahoma held Minnesota scoreless for a 12-minute span in the second half to turn back the Big Ten team 52-45; Wake Forest withstood a late surge to hand Florida State a 73-64 setback; Bill Telusky's 23 points sparked George Washington to a 91-67 lacing of Richmond in a Southern Conference fray; and Loyola of Chicago whipped Creighton 67-54 for its fourth straight victory.

In other games NYU throttled Boston College 81-70, LSU downed Louisiana College 59-53, Colgate thumped Columbia 72-65, Furman beat Newberry 78-66, Georgia Tech topped Georgia 73-66, Louisville overwhelmed Stetson 81-47, St. Francis (Pa.) upended Westminster (Pa.) 71-65 and Marshall (W.Va.) overcame Western Michigan 78-63 in a Mid-American Conference game.

Guy Rodgers Scores 24 For Warriors

By The Associated Press
Guy Rodgers, Temple's All-America of last season, has made the transition from college basketball to the pro ranks without faltering.

In his National Basketball Assn. debut Thursday night after a 6-months Army hitch, Rodgers scored 24 points and handed out nine assists. But his brilliant performance went for naught as the Philadelphia Warriors dropped a 122-114 decision to the Boston Celtics.

The victory moved the Celtics into a virtual tie for first place in the Eastern Division with the idle New York Knicks.

The race in the Western Division also tightened as the Detroit Pistons took the measure of the division leading St. Louis Hawks for the second straight night, 107-101, and advanced within three games of the top spot. In the other game, the Syracuse Nats whipped the Minneapolis Lakers 101-99 in overtime.

By The Associated Press
Los Angeles — Davey Moore, 128, Springfield, Mo., knocked out Ricardo Moreno, 127, Mexico, 1.

Portland, Ore. — Denny Moyer, 151, Portland, outpointed Tony Dupas, 15, New Orleans, 10.

Cronin Hinted As Successor To Will Harridge in AL Post

NEW YORK (AP) — The new president of the American League will be Joe Cronin and his office will be located in Boston, an authoritative source informed The Associated Press.

The informant said Cronin, general manager of the Red Sox, will take over the post shortly after the Christmas holidays.

The source also disclosed that Cronin had been informed of his acceptance by the owners last week before the baseball meetings in Washington had ended.

Akron, Oberlin Win In Ohio Conference

By The Associated Press
Akron and Oberlin each won their first Ohio Conference game of the season, and Wilmington won its first game after suffering two initial losses.

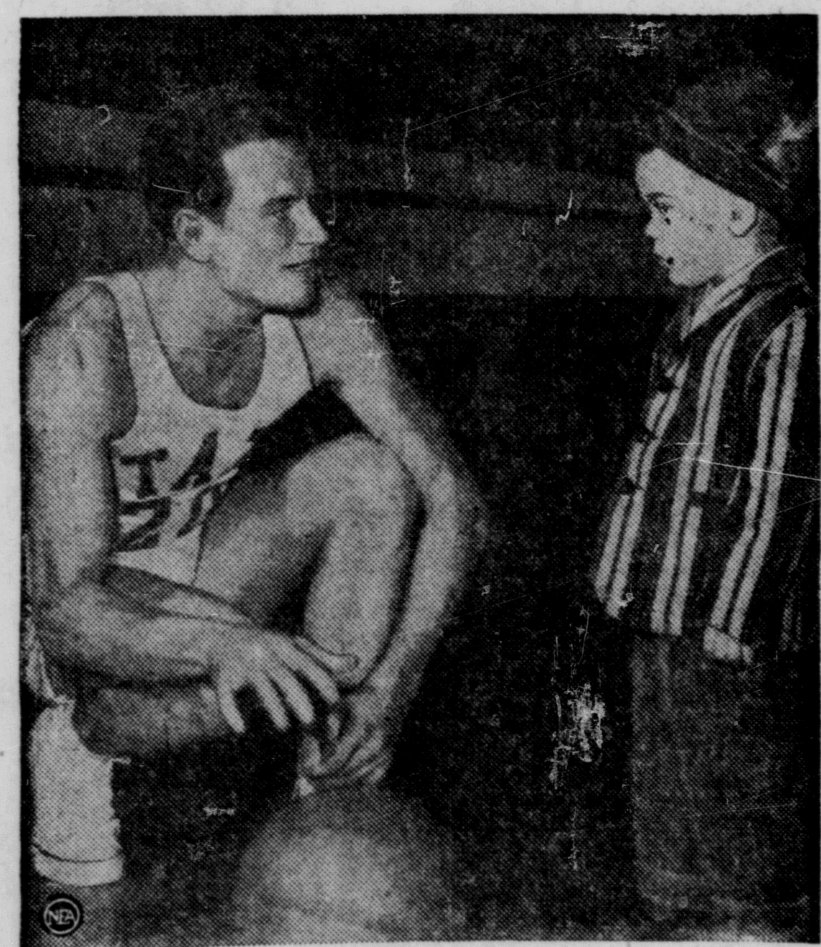

Defiance, meanwhile, was winning its fifth straight and Xavier recording its third in a row. Neither has been beaten.

Akron, although losing an earlier, non-conference tilt, showed it still had the form befitting an Ohio Conference defending champion. The Zippers whipped winless Otterbein in easy fashion, 66-46. It was the Otters' third loss.

Oberlin, in taking their first loop game, 65-53 over Mount Union, had to break out of a 53-all tie to do it.

Wilmington handed Berea of Kentucky its first loss in three starts, 53-50. The Quakers were never headed, although tied once.

Defiance rallied to overcome a six-point halftime deficit in defeating Adrian, Mich., 75-65. Joe Wilson tallied 25 points in leading the winning Yellow Jackets.

Sports Sketches

By GORDON ARNDT

I don't feel that I'm jumping the gun or being a bit premature in writing about tournament time.

When you get right down to it regular season play here in Ohio amounts to nothing more than an 18-game exhibition schedule. A team with an 0-18 record has as much chance, record wise, of being state champs as a squad with an 18-0 mark.

Salem will again compete in tourney play on the sectional level at the Youngstown South High field house. Two teams will emerge from this sectional play and will become eligible for district play also to be held at the South floor. Two other teams that will emerge from the Struthers sectional will form the quartet of clubs for the district go at the South gym.

One winner will come from the district play at Youngstown and will go to the regional meet at Kent. Three other teams will be at the Kent regional, having come from district tourneys in Canton, Kent and from the eastern district.

THE 14 TEAMS that will compete along with Salem in the Youngstown sectional are: Girard, Leavittsburg, Newton Falls, Niles, Warren, Champion, Howland,

Florida Coach Combines Wit With Results

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — To make a long story short, Florida State University football coach Tom Nugent is something of a character.

Nugent, whose Seminoles take on Oklahoma State University in the first annual Blue Grass Bowl football game Saturday, combines witty psychology with plain old showmanship to get results.

For example, he has a brightly colored reservation box near the bench for players ineligible to re-enter a game.

Nugent on occasions has taken a mentally and physically beaten team to a secret meeting place supposedly for a blackboard session.

But the boys sometimes have arrived to find a complete orchestra ready to give them two hours of music. Nugent says it helps relax them.

Despite his showmanship and humor, Nugent has a solid reputation as a hard working coach.

The 7-3 record this season, the same as Oklahoma State University's indicates it.

Nugent says he believes in sound football above all else.

"Sure, we use the 'I' formation and all that tricky stuff," he said.

"We wouldn't use it, though, if it didn't pay off. And it did as we beat Tennessee among others, as we scored 29 touchdowns . . . this season."

Cubs' Books Opened To Team by Wrigley

CHICAGO (AP)—In what is believed to be an unprecedented move by a club owner, Phil Wrigley of the Chicago Cubs is going to throw open his ledgers to his players.

First baseman Dale Long, Cubs player representative, will fly to Chicago Monday from his North Adams, Mass., home at Wrigley's invitation to peruse the club's books.

"The light of truth is the strongest argument," said Wrigley. "Remove the aura of secrecy and it's no longer a cause for suspicion."

"The thing I want Dale Long and the players to learn is that gross receipts and net income are vastly different things."

"He will be shown just how much our operation costs, where the money is going and how expenses are met from year to year. We have nothing to hide and he can look at the books for the past 33 years if he wants."

Last week in Washington, club owners voted against a players' proposal that players' salaries in the future be equal to 20 per cent of the gross intake of each club. Most owners said that more than 20 per cent of their receipts already goes toward the players' salaries.

Jack McCarthy Signs Contract With Royals

CINCINNATI (AP) — Jack McCarthy, former Canisius star, is back with Cincinnati's Royals after signing a contract Thursday. And the 6-foot-2 speedster will go right to work tonight for the pro basketball Royals, badly in need of help after winning only five of their first 23 games.

McCarthy, 24, now available after a service hitch, will replace — for the moment, anyway — Si Green who is in the hospital for tests of puzzling dizzy spells.

Youngstown Chaney, Youngstown East, Austintown Fitch, Youngstown North, Youngstown Rayen, and Youngstown South.

Can't you see it all now? The Quakers probably will have to beat Chaney or Rayen to advance out of the Youngstown sectional. Then where would they go. Right back to South's floor for a district tourney. If the South Warriors were as potent this year as last they could be playing a regular season plus sectional and district tourney games ON THEIR HOME FLOOR.

"This," is a tourney set up? Tourney officials might think they have done something good in a so-called reshuffling of the tourney. All they have done is to provide for more sectional and district tourneys thus cutting down the number of teams in each.

However, they flunked in the arrangement of what teams play where.

Do you know that Youngstown South, Struthers, Canton McKinley, Alliance and Wooster will be playing tourney games on their home floor.

I never heard of anything so idiotic. These teams have all season long to get accustomed to a floor on which they will be playing in the tournament. What is so ridiculous about this is that it's their own home floor.

THINK OF how nice it would be for Salem if they knew all season long that when they took part in the tourney it would be in their gym on E. 6th St.

Why in the heck didn't they just switch the teams. Why aren't Struthers area teams playing in Youngstown and vice versa?

I suppose Youngstown officials will be calling them in the Youngstown tourney too. If they do it's sillier yet. They could switch officials' assignments also. It's reasonable to assume if they didn't switch the teams for this year they won't switch the stripe-shirted lads.

I can't see why this practice goes on year and year. Why doesn't some group sit down and work out something better.

This group's purpose would not be a selfish request but would be slanted to making the set up more fair and just, supposedly two elements that form the core and heart of any athletic program.

From here and there . . . one of the spectators at the Salem-Struthers game was John Broski, the coach of Cleveland East Tech.

The Scrabs were state champs last year winning 26 in a row. Their streak is now at 29 straight with three easy wins so far this season. They play Salem here on Dec. 26.

THEY HAVE four starters back from last season. The smallest man on the starting team is 6-2 Jim Stone and he was all-state last year.

The only starter lost through graduation was Gerald Warfield, their 5-10 captain. So, who fills in for him as the fifth starter but 6-8 Gene Lane. The Scarabs' starting team averages almost 6-5.

I hope the Quakers aren't overlooking tonight's game with Columbiana and Tuesday's clash with East Palestine in anticipation of the Tech battle.

Maybe the Clippers won't be too formidable but I'm sure the Quakers will have their hands full with Don Hinten's scrappy Bulldogs.

Salem played against Struthers like you would expect a team to perform in their first game.

They missed many shots in close and were rusty in their ball handling.

It was Struthers' third game. The Quakers' big men, Lou Slaby and Clyde Marks, did a good job on the boards but the wear and tear of a football season has not completely rubbed off. It will be a little while before they reach their cage peak.

The same can be said of the other performers but not to such an extent.

I firmly believe the Quakers possess the potential of having a potent team. Only time, more polish and a combined team effort will bring it to light.

3 Club Battle For Top Spot In Wed. Circuit

Two big games are on tap this evening in the Wednesday Division of the Salem City Basketball League. One will take place at 10 p.m. when the Farmers' National Bank meets Burton Ford.

Farmers is in first place with a 4-0 mark while Burtons are in second tied with Speakers' Mark 2-1 both with 3-1 marks.

Should Burtons whip Farmers and Speakers take the Salem News in the second big tilt at 8 p.m., all three clubs will be tied for first with 4-1 marks.

Speakers should get past the Salem News with no trouble. As such if Farmers whip Burtons then Speakers will take over undisputed second place.

Farmers has the 10th leading score in the division in Dick Beall but Burtons have four men in the top ten in Gene Kitzmiller (3rd), Curt Nicholson (4th), Phil Wenner (5th) and Marion Kitzmiller (6th).

Speakers has the second leading point maker in the circuit in John Mandish, a former cager at Pitt.

In the first game tonight at 7 Riffles meet Millers while at 9 p.m., Schaffers battle Bennetts, a team that has the top scorer in the circuit in Bruce Feicht.

Volleyball Shows 3 Teams Winning Trio

Kiwanis won a trio from Ohio Edison 15-2, 15-7 and 15-10 and in the final match the Post Office drubbed Foreman's Window 12-6, 15-5 and 15-11.

Individual game results are figured in final team standings.

Next Tuesday's schedule is as follows: 5:30, Eljer vs Buckeye 6:15, Foremans vs Kiwanis 7:00, Furnace vs Ohio Ed 7:45, Post Office vs Bliss

No matches are scheduled for Dec. 18. Action after Tuesday will resume Jan. 6, 1959.

Giants' Gifford Claims Browns Neglect 'Emotion' in Football

CLEVELAND (AP) — There's a cog, but now the Browns have slipping on the Cleveland Browns' dressing room, quoting New York Giants' halfback Frank Gifford. One portion is circled with a black pencil for all to read—and react.

Quoting Gifford, the item reads: "When you get out on the field, football is 90 per cent emotion. Coach Paul Brown seems to neglect that part of it."

Obviously, you can read into that whatever you want. But the Browns and their coach don't think it's complimentary.

As a coach, Brown is a perfectionist. He drives his players hard, but makes it pay off with success.

If Cleveland beats or ties the Giants in their climactic game in New York Sunday, it will mean the Browns' eighth Eastern Conference championship in the last nine years in the National Football League.

Only the giants broke that hold by winning in 1956. The Browns also won four league championships in the All-American Conference.

Lack of emotion or not, the Browns will be up high for the final league game because a big package of money rides on the outcome. If further incentive is needed, the Giants defeated Cleveland 21-17 earlier this season by wiping out a 10-point halftime deficit.

That was the first loss of the season for the Browns after winning five in a row. They were beginning to convey the impression they were a "super" team.

After that loss, Brown said: "It does a team good to take a licking once in a while. We deserved it."

Early in the season, fullback Jimmy Brown constituted much of Cleveland's offensive punch. The powerful runner still is the main cog, but now the Browns have Lew Carpenter's running and Milt Plum's passing to bolster the attack.

St. Louis, Kentucky Meet in TV Contest

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Kentucky and St. Louis, both among collegiate basketball's top ten, could force a reshuffle of ratings in their nationally televised clash Saturday at Lexington.

Without the fanfare of a nationwide audience, this contest of unbeaten would attract major attention in its own right, St. Louis is No. 9 in the Associated Press poll with two victories and Kentucky is No. 2 and owner of four straight successes.

St. Louis, under new Coach John Bennington, will have the advantage in height.

Game time is 3 p.m. (EST). The contest opens the new college TV game of the week series-NBC.

Ohio County Engineers Group Wants to Boost License Fees

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The County Engineers Assn. of Ohio wants the state to boost the price of auto licenses from $10 to $15. The engineers also supported a resolution Thursday to increase the cost of truck licenses by 30 per cent. Cost of these licenses vary and have gone up 20 per cent since 1950.

The group, meeting at the closing session of its convention Thursday, believes that by increasing motor vehicle license fees, more money will be available for county road work. The engineers also got behind any legislation to increase the state's revenue for highway purposes.

Meeting jointly with them, the Ohio County Commissioners Assn. voted to ask the Legislature to allow commissioners to submit a county income tax to the electorate.

Commissioners also took a stand on the condition of roads which the Ohio Highway Department turns over to counties for maintenance. They want to prevent the department from assigning them roads in work-out condition.

They further seek to have the department maintain county roads while they are used as detours during construction of other highways. The state presently must return the roads in good condition after the construction has ended.

In other resolutions, delegates: Urged that commissioners press for county areas to become more civil defense-minded.

Asked the Legislature to pass a law allowing commissioners to get an opinion from the attorney general after he has given an opinion on the same subject to the county prosecutor.

Supported establishment of an Ohio water commission. Directed the association's welfare committee to further study two proposals:

1. A request for a law which would tax municipally owned public utilities the same as privately owned firms, with the extra money going for poor relief programs.
2. Make it mandatory for the state to supply 25 per cent of the funds for aid to dependent children programs.

In an election at the commissioners' closing session, Gordon Augspurger of Henry County advanced from first vice president to president, Roy O. Stillwagon of Trumbull County advanced from second vice president to first vice president.

Louis Salvador of Belmont County was elected second vice president, and Marion Brown of Sandusky County succeeded M. I. Evisizer of Champaign County as treasurer. George W. Taylor of Madison County was re-elected executive secretary.

Program Is Planned By Two Grangers

Perry Grangers will visit Guilford Grange Hall at Saturday's meeting at 8:30 p.m. for the purpose of exemplifying the fourth degree.

Guilford Grange will put on the third degree. The home economics committee requests Guilford members to bring sandwiches.

Cincinnati Clergyman Meets Government in District Court

CINCINNATI (AP) — The conscience of a war-hating clergyman and the majesty of the United States government are scheduled to meet head-to-head today at the bar of civil justice.

Until his U. S. District Court appearance, no one will be sure whether the Rev. Maurice F. McCrackin will walk into court or be carried, whether he will defend himself or have the help of friends or whether he will utter even a word.

The lanky, greying, 53-year-old minister has refused for years to pay that portion of his income tax he figures goes for war purposes. But that failure is not an issue in today's courtroom drama.

Today's issue: Did the Rev. Mr. McCrackin violate a federal law when he failed to answer an Internal Revenue Service summons to discuss his income tax troubles?

Perhaps more basis is this question before District Judge John H. Druffel: Do the obligations of American citizenship extend beyond the point where the law and the conscience of the citizen are in conflict?

The case of the Rev. Mr. McCrackin, pastor of Cincinnati's St. Barnabas Presbyterian and Episcopal Church, has drawn almost world-wide attention.

For 15 days after he was put into jail on a contempt-of-court charge, the Rev. Mr. McCrackin fasted. He broke his fast Tuesday on the advice of a physician.

The minister contends he cannot in good conscience obey a summons or a court order or co-operate with any civil authority involved in the income tax matter. This is because, he explains, "They are arms of a government which is trying to coerce my conscience."

Judge Druffel has said he sees the issue before the court this way: Can the Rev. Mr. McCrackin's "conscientious objection to taxes" be widened to include conscientious objection to obeying a summons.

For several months, the pacifist minister has refused to co-operate in the usual system of justice. When he was arraigned Sept. 12, he refused to walk into court, stand before the bar or enter a plea. On Nov. 24, he did the same and was jailed for contempt of court.

THIS IS Howard Keel, musical comedy star, in his costume for the part of Simon Peter in "The Big Fisherman," the epic from Lloyd C. Douglas best seller. Keel has played such parts as a Mountie in Indian Love Call and crooned Pagan Love Song to Esther Williams. He credits his agent for the idea of trying out for the part of Peter in the Biblical-era epic.

A Yuletide Story

By Walter Scott

Here and There In Our Town

By DONNA AGAN

Vonda Lee Sponseller should have arrived in Afghanistan by this time, Mr. and Mrs. William Sponseller of 760 14th St. recently received a card from their daughter which was postmarked Athens, Greece.

Vonda Lee, who traveled all over the United States for six years doing operations and radio work for TWA Airlines, decided that wasn't quite enough traveling, so she applied for a government position abroad, and chose secretarial work with our embassy at Kabul, the capital of Afghanistan.

Part of her overseas instructions were to pack enough clothing and supplies for two years. Afghanistan is a rugged mountain country with no railroads, and approximately 2,500 miles of unpaved roads. Vonda Lee told her parents that she thought she would buy a horse when she arrived.

SALEM HIGH SCHOOL senior Jim Murphy's poem, "The Dogwood Tree" which was printed in a regional anthology of the American Poetry Society last spring, has now been chosen for the National Anthology called "Songs of Youth." Selections were made from about 10,000 poems.

Mrs. Harold Hoprich's article was published in the Nov. 24 issue of "Medical Economics." The feature concerns the call system which Dr. Hoprich and several other Salem physicians set up in order to take a day off now and then and still provide medical care for patients.

Willard and Blanche Pim of Salem, who are spending the winter in Dade City, Fla., write to friends that hoeing 1,500 strawberry plants sure keeps them busy.

LEONARD BERNSTEIN will present the first program in another of his children's series Saturday at 12 noon on Channel 8. He will once again conduct the New York Philharmonic in excerpts from classics in "What Is Symphonic Music?"

Alfred Stratton of E. 7th St. informs us that the largest Yearly Meeting of Friends in the world is held in Africa, and is the result of missionary work started by the Rev. Willis Hotchkiss who left Salem around 1903 to form the Friends Industrial Mission in the Belgian Congo area. Edgar Hole, Dr. Elisha Blackburn and his wife, Edgar's sister, also of Salem, went to Africa at the same time to help the Rev. Hotchkiss.

Dr. Blackburn died in October of this year. His wife was Virginia Hole, daughter of Jacob and Amelia Hole, and a cousin of Willis Hole.

At present Herman Stratton's daughter, Mrs. Lawrence Ehinger (Delores) is working in Africa with this group.

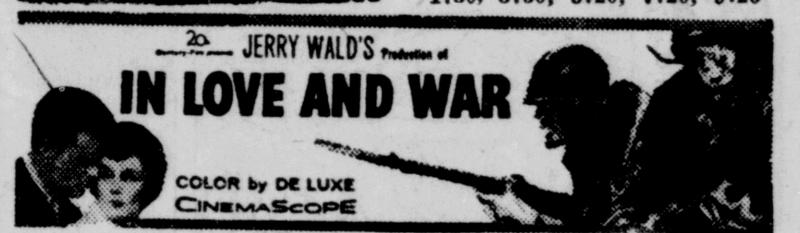

Yule Mail Load To Hit Peak Soon

With the expectation that the Christmas mail load will hit its peak within the next few days, Postmaster O. C. Hoover urged the continued cooperation of local residents in the "mail early for Christmas" campaign.

The postmaster suggested that last minute mailers use air mail for their Christmas cards or gifts that are going out of town. There's still time for local deliveries, but all Christmas cards should be sent by first class mail. Senders should be sure to include their return addresses on Christmas card envelopes and package labels, he said.

Postal employees are digging in for the final drive to get everything delivered by Christmas eve. The post office will remain open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., including Saturdays and 1 to 5 p.m. Sundays.
